

THE SOUND OF SILENCE

June 30, 2011

By Michael Erlewine (Michael@Erlewine.net)

Very few words as we come into the last day before the New Moon and partial solar eclipse. Even I am going to have to stop talking for a time and enter the action myself for some of these next days. This is indeed a happening time!

There are some very practical aspects taking place, you know, like where the rubber meets the road sort of thing – practical consequences. Perhaps a summing up of things past and sense of or feeling for a new future or direction that I could take.

I feel this time will make a difference for me. This is definitely a time of deep imprinting. Insights are being revealed.

If you make even a small change at the center, it affects the entire periphery.

We are in there now, so let's see what happens. See you next again on Sunday, July 3, which is Margaret and my 40th wedding anniversary – the Ruby one.
