Chet Helms, Steve Miller Blues Band at Set: Family Dog at Maritime Hall

Notes: Helms Tribute, the first rock show at Maritime Hall.
I recieved a call around March of '94 from Bruce Dauser, a printer who had called me once after seeing my posters in the Art of Rock.
He then had stopped at my booth at the '63 Hall of Flowers(SF) poster show. Bruce's call was the beginning of a close friendship, working together with Chet Helms on many Family Dog posters.
Bruce had gotten word that Boots Hughston was looking for a poster artist for the Helms Tribute Benefit that he was promoting. There already were several posters being done, including ones by Wes Wilson and Alton Kelley; but rock superstar Steve Miller had just signed on and they wanted a poster to have him included on the complete lineup. Stanley Mouse, who was scheduled to do a poster for that show, backed out after Bill Graham Presents offered him work for the Fillmore grand reopening. The Fillmore was going to open again after many years on the same night as the Helms show.
Apparently BGP had promised Mouse to do the posters for the new Fillmore series, plus the cover of SF Chronicle's Datebook. I guess it was an offer he couldn't refuse. At any rate, it allowed an opportunity for me to get involved in the poster and, later, further into posters again.

Well, as it turned out the cover of Datebook used Mouse's design, but his Fillmore poster series was a misunderstanding. My Helms poster was already under way, so Mouse eventually turned out a Tribute poster with a parody theme. It also turned out later that Steve Miller was ill and unable to attend, so it was quite a fluke that I managed to be the one chosen to do the poster, which was the only Tribute poster done with a paid budget for both printing and artwork, it was the basic advertising poster for the show, hung up all around San Francisco.

The Helms poster, because of it's popularity, gave me a foothold back in the poster business, in which I had been inactive for about ten years. I imagine it was to the dismay of some of the older more established SF artists, but I paid my respects to them by hiring them all, Mouse, Kelley, Moscosso, Singer, Conklin, Tuten, Grimshaw (flaked), and others for the Maritime Hall series when I became the Art Director for the Family Dog there in '95.

The computer turned out to be a fantastic method of creating rock posters, causing former ways to be referred to as "old world". At the time of the poster, It was the largest project I had worked on by computer, having only 8 MB of RAM and the primitive Operating System 6. Needless to say, I had many late night crashes and hours of locking up. Late On the last night I accidentally trashed the sails with the band names on them! I was devastated and shaky, called Bruce at 3 AM to tell him I had failed. Bruce told me to just go to bed, that I could recover the next day, and he'd push the printing date back a day. The following day for 16 hours, my wife helped me redraw all the names and sails. During the connection of the sails to the ship's hull which were on two separate files, it failed repeatedly after 6 hours of trying, so I reduced the page and filesize (133 dpi) and it finally worked. We made it to press time and on time for posting to advertise.

Grand Opening of Matritime Hall :Gregg Allman, Zero at Maritime Hall

Notes: Family Dog Grand Opening #1 poster of the Maritime Hall series

I was called by Maritime Hall owner Boots Hughston about doing the grand opening/Gregg Allman poster around August of 1995. He told me he wanted Popeye on the poster. At first I rejected the concept, arguing that Popeye is owned by King Features Syndicate, one of the largest comics agencies, and that these characters are jealously guarded by their attorneys. But he insisted, citing the Tribute to Dr.Strange poster (Family Dog), Captain Marvel (Kesey) and other traditional psychedelic usage of established images. Personally, my own artistic path was littered with such usage. So I began to think how I could accommodate Boots wishes. I was indebted to boots at that time for choosing me to do the Grand Opening of the Family Dog at Maritime Hall. Then I got an idea. I imagined Popeye as the indian in the Family Dog logo, sticking out of the logo with the Indian's hat and pipe, and the long hair of indian and hippy. I thought it would be cool. I made a pencil sketch of it, and showed it to Boots. He liked it and I went ahead with the artwork. We eventually came to the conclusion that it wasn't popeye after all, but his hippy brother, Deadeye!

Note: The FD grand opening poster was published prior to #60 & 61, despite show dates.

Maritime Hall Calendar for June 1996

Notes: Maritime Hall June 96. First Maritime Hall show without Family Dog. I was directing Gary Grimshaw who worked on it but then he couldn't finish, so I jumped in and put this poster together in one all-nighter using a scratchboard drawing I made in 1972. -- Jim Phillips

Complete Maritime Hall (including the New Family Dog Series) $2000

Notes: Complete Maritime Hall (including the New Family Dog Series) $2000

Complete Set of 129 Posters and 129 Cards

In 1994, the {Family Dog} group decided to once again launch a dancehall, this time at the Maritime Hall at 450 Harrison Street, along the waterfront at the foot of the Bay Bridge. Then in 1995, the original founder of the Family Dog, Chet Helms, along with local promoter/musician Boots Hughston, Pepperland promoter Bobby Blackburn, and photographer Grant Jacobs more formally re-launched the Family Dog dances at Maritime Hall.

{!P CP007432 "Family Dog at the Maritime Hall"}

The hall is a 3-story building that includes a ballroom that holds 2,300 people, a smaller room (1,200 capacity), and even a restaurant/blues club called the Deep Sea Dog. They installed a custom sound system, developed by sound pioneer John Meyers, and made ready for some killer light shows, from legendary figures like Bill Ham and the Brotherhood of Light. Plans also included an 8-camera video projection system that kept everyone in touch with the main stage and recording equipment.

{!P CP006448 "Maritime Hall Productions"}

A five-year lease was signed, but the Family Dog shows only ran from the opening on October 27, 1995 through May of 1996, after which the Maritime Hall shows were no longer Family Dog productions, but became Maritime Hall Productions and then was operated by the production company 2B1, which ran shows at least until late 2002.

{!P CP006450 "Maritime Hall Productions"}

The result is a series of some 129 or so posters, mainly monthly calendars, most with cards that, until recently, have mostly been ignored by collectors. It is often the case that a series is not appreciated when it is running, but as soon as it stops, collection begins. That is happening now with the Maritime Hall materials. It is a nice set and a longer set than most, almost as long as the original Family Dog series.
