

A GAME OF FROG FOR THE HEAT
June 7, 2011

By Michael Erlewine (Michael@Erlewine.net)

Taken at Big Rapids, Michigan

It is over 90 degrees today and going to be even hotter tomorrow. Lucky for me I was out in the woods around 6 AM this morning when it was cool and the mist was on the river. But now it is hot.

Just for fun, since it is too hot for much (we don't have or want air-conditioning) I thought I would show you a photo I took this morning of a frog pond.

I call it a frog pond because there are frogs in it and, if you are as lazy as I am right now, we can count them together... the frogs.

This image in its original format is 98 MB in size and 18150 pixels by 5484 pixels, so I can't easily post it or send it to you. What I have done is show you the whole thing, but very small, and then found and cropped out three frogs (and another I just found) that are in the shot. I am sure there are more and if the weather gets hotter and I get even more lazy, I will find some.

Needless to say I am not good for much in this heat, but I am grateful it is not still winter!

TO REALLY PLAY THIS GAME YOU HAVE TO DOWNLOAD THE LARGE IMAGES.

This is a 98 MB photo, that is 18150 pixels wide and 5484 pixels deep. There are frogs in there but you can't find them. I will help.

Do you see the frog on the log? How about the one at the front, left of the log?

This frog is somewhat to the right of the log.

This frog is somewhat to the left of the log.