

GOATSBEARD
November 20, 2010

By Michael Erlewine (Michael@Erlewine.net)

Yep, it is cold outside and I am inside in my makeshift 'studio' trying to keep busy. Here is a close-up of the common (but lovely) Goatsbeard gone to seed.

For those who like the finer detail, here is a link. When the link opens click on the image itself for as close as they will let me get, which is 2500 pixels. The actual image is 6048 pixels. Take a look. It is a treat.

<http://www.nikonimages.com/gallery/1148/U1148I1290257005.SEQ.0.jpg>

